Dr. Beth Kurtz-Costes, Professor of Developmental Psychology, is the recipient of a Zachary Taylor Smith Distinguished Term Professorship, effective July 1, 2016.

Appointments to the Distinguished Term Professorship in Research and Undergraduate Education are intended to recognize faculty with outstanding scholarly and teaching contributions to the University. Dr. Kurtz-Costes received this professorship due to the tremendous amount of effort she puts in behind-the-scenes to ensure our students have the most meaningful experience possible during their undergraduate careers at UNC. She has served as the Director of Undergraduate Studies since 2001; during her leadership, she significantly revised our undergraduate curriculum, redesigned our Cognitive Science minor, fostered the development of a new interdisciplinary Neuroscience minor, and served as part of our Undergraduate Curriculum Committee. Dr. Kurtz-Costes has also served our Honors undergraduates as the Director of the Honors Program from 2000-2001, 2007-2009, and 2012 to present. Congratulations, Dr. Kurtz-Costes!

Dr. Kurt Gray, Assistant Professor of Social Psychology, and Dr. Keith Payne, Professor of Social Psychology, are co-recipients of a Russell Sage Foundation grant. Drs. Gray and Payne received a total award of over $135,000 over two years for their project, "Cast as a Criminal: How Moral Typecasting Leads to Racial Prejudice." They will explore whether moral typecasting can help explain aggressive law enforcement tactics towards non-whites, especially black men. They will also examine the role of typecasting in situations of heightened ambiguity, such as adolescence and whether this leads law enforcement to be biased against black adolescent males.

· News, continued ·

Dr. Erica Wise, a Professor of Clinical Psychology and Director of Psychological Services, has been appointed to the American Psychological Association's Commission on Ethics Processes. The Board of Directors of the APA has selected 17 distinguished psychologists and ethics experts to serve on a special commission to review all of the association's ethics processes and procedures. The APA Council of Representatives approved the establishment of a commission to evaluate and recommend changes to its ethics processes as part of its adoption in August 2015 of a policy prohibition psychologists from participating in national security investigations.

The commission is expected to complete its work in 2016 and to present a final report at the February 2017 meetings of the APA Board of Directors, Council Leadership Team, and Council of Representatives.

Jackie Nesi, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, is the recipient of the 2016 UNC Office of Undergraduate Research's Graduate Student Mentor Award. This award was established to recognize and encourage mentoring of undergraduates by graduate students. The Office for Undergraduate Research values the support, motivation, and perspective that graduate students like Jackie bring to the undergraduate's understanding of the researcher experience.

Dr. Kristen Lindquist, an Assistant Professor of Social Psychology, is the recipient of a 2016 National Science Foundation grant. NSF funds research and education in science and engineering. Dr. Lindquist received a total award of over $400,000 over three years for her project, "Advancing a Situated Neuroscience of Emotion."

Faculty and graduate students were recognized for their service to undergraduates at the Psychology and Neuroscience Commencement Ceremony on Sunday, May 8, 2016.

The Carolina Neuroscience Club presented Dr. Kristen Lindquist with the Advancement of Neuroscience Award for her work enhancing neuroscience opportunities for undergraduates in the Carolina Community. She was chosen for this award for her work in mentoring undergraduates through their senior theses and their research courses as well as her work volunteering at UNC's Science Expo, connecting kids as young as 5 to neuroscience.

Psi Chi presented Dr. Steve Buzinski and Vanessa Volpe with Outstanding Teaching Awards for their work helping undergraduate students grow through teaching, research, and mentorship. Dr. Buzinski won for his tremendous impact on students, challenging them to succeed by explaining teaching methods through research citation. Vanessa won for her excellence in teaching and mentorship and her research focusing on the physical consequences of racial discrimination.

Psychology Club presented Dr. Beth Kurtz-Costes and Kelly Sheppard with Outstanding Research Mentorship Awards. Dr. Kurtz-Costes won as she is often described as an ideal mentor. She is an encouraging and patient mentor, especially when assisting students with their Honors theses. Kelly won for her mentorship in a Psychology Research Methods course, in which she helped undergraduates learn how to interpret data using SPSS, how to create surveys using Qualtrics, and how to write professional lab reports in psychology. Kelly won for her dedication to go above and beyond to ensure students are successful in mastering course material.
