Department News

Each year, the University recognizes faculty, staff, and students for outstanding teaching. We are proud to announce that three Psychology and Neuroscience faculty members and one Cognitive Psychology graduate student are 2017 University Teaching Award winners!

Dr. Enrique Neblett, Associate Professor of Clinical Psychology, is a recipient of the 2017 Tanner Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching. The Tanner Awards were created in 1952 to recognize excellence in inspirational teaching of undergraduate students.

Dr. Marsha Penner, Lecturer, is a recipient of the 2017 Johnston Teaching Excellence Award. This award was created in 1991 to recognize excellence in undergraduate teaching and are funded by the James M. Johnston Scholarship Program.

Dr. Charlie Wiss, Senior Lecturer, is a recipient of the 2017 William C. Friday Award for Excellence in Teaching. The Friday Award was created by members of the 1986 graduating class to recognize members of the faculty who have exemplified excellence in inspirational teaching and is named in honor of William C. Friday, who devoted a lifetime of service to the University as President of the UNC system.

S. Adam Smith, Cognitive Psychology graduate student, is a recipient of the 2017 Tanner Teaching Assistants Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching.

Drs. Neblett, Penner, Wiss, and Mr. Smith will be recognized on Tuesday, January 31 during the half-time ceremony at the UNC-Pitt men's basketball game in the Dean E. Smith Center. Congratulations to our faculty and graduate student for winning these prestigious awards!

News, continued.

S. Adam Smith, a graduate student in Cognitive Psychology, is a Spring 2017 Future Faculty Fellow. The Future Faculty Fellowship Program (FFFP) is a UNC Center for Faculty Excellence graduate student initiative. FFFP is a semester-long program that introduces graduate students to evidence-based teaching practices, helps them understand the roles and responsibilities of faculty members at different types of institutions of higher education, and helps them reflect on their professional goals.

Effua Sosoo, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, is a recipient of the 2017 American Psychosomatic Society's Minority Initiative Award. The APS Minority Initiative Awards are intended to assist with travel, hotel accommodations, and other fees with attending the APS Annual Meeting. Each scholarship includes travel funds and complimentary registration. Effua, with this award, will travel to the 75th Annual Scientific Meeting in Sevilla, Spain in March 2017 to present her paper.

Adam Hoffman, a graduate student in Developmental Psychology, is the recipient of a 2016 Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues (SPSSI) grant. The SPSSI Grants-in-Aid program supports scientific research in social problem areas related to the basic interests and goals of SPSSI. This program especially encourages proposals involving unique and timely research opportunities, underrepresented institutions, graduate students, junior scholars, volunteer research teams, and actual projects. Adam received a grant for his project, "Reducing Stereotype Threat and Increasing STEM Motivation in American Indian Adolescents: An Intervention."

Shannon Blakey, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, is the recipient of a 2016 Society for a Science of Clinical Psychology Dissertation Grant Award. The SSCP Dissertation Grant Award is intended to both recognize and support students who have already received approval for their dissertation project. In addition to evaluation of the proposal, SSCP also considers additional sources of funding received in the context of the overall estimated cost of the project.

Rachel Greene and Shannon Blakey, graduate students in Clinical Psychology, are recipients of a Fall 2016 UNC Office of Undergraduate Research's Graduate Student Mentor Award. The UNC Graduate Student Mentor Award was established to recognize and encourage mentoring of undergraduates by graduate student. The Office for Undergraduate Research, with this award, values the support, motivation, and perspective that graduate students bring to the undergraduate's understanding of the researcher experience. Rachel and Shannon will be honored at the closing ceremony at the Celebration of Undergraduate Research in April.

Yen-Ping Chang, Jenna Clark, Suzannah Isgett, and Khoa Le Nguyen, graduate students in Social Psychology, are the 2016 recipients of the Positive Psychology Science Fund Awards. This award recognizes innovative and methodologically rigorous research projects that have a potential impact for positive emotions research in the scientific community.

2017 Distinguished Alumnus Lecture

We are pleased to announce that the recipient of this year's Distinguished Alumnus Award is Dr. David Budescu, who earned his Ph.D. in the Quantitative Psychology Program in 1980.

Dr. Budescu is the inaugural Anne Anastasi Professor of Psychometrics and Quantitative Psychology at Fordham University. His research is in areas of human judgement, individual and group decision-making under uncertainty and with incomplete and vague information, and statistics for the behavioral and social sciences.

Dr. Budescu's talk, "Identifying Expertise to Extract the Wisdom of Crowds," is scheduled for Wednesday, March 22, at 3:30 PM (location to be announced).
