Department News

Dr. Barbara Fredrickson, a Kenan Distinguished Professor of Social Psychology, was awarded the 2017 TANG Prize in honor of her exceptional contributions to the well-being of humanity on November 12th. The TANG Foundation is a private institution established by Dr. Fay Tang in 2006. The TANG Prize Award for Achievement in Psychology honors a living internationally-recognized scholar with a Ph.D. in psychology who has made an exceptional contribution to psychological health anywhere in the world.

The $100,000 award is in recognition of Dr. Fredrickson's achievements in psychology over her 25 year career, including over 100 peer-reviewed articles and her books Positivity and Love 2.0 (translated in over 20 languages). Dr. Fredrickson's research has received international acclaim and has been recognized by spiritual leaders such as the Dalai Lama. A free online course of hers, created through UNC's partnership with Coursera, has reached lifelong learners in more than 190 countries. She was presented with the TANG Prize on November 12 at the Arts and Letters Club of Toronto.

News, continued.

Dr. Mitch Prinstein, Seters Distinguished Professor of Clinical Psychology, has been elected to the American Psychological Association's Board of Directors. The American Psychological Association (APA) is the leading scientific and professional organization representing psychology in the United States and its mission is to advance the creation, communication, and application of psychological knowledge to benefit society and improve people's lives.

The APA's Board of Directors were previously selected exclusively the APA Council of Representatives. This year, election for its Board of Directors was opened to the entire APA membership, a group of over 115,700 researchers, educators, clinicians, consultants, and students. Dr. Prinstein was elected for a three-year term to meet governance needs in the area of science and academia. His term starts on January 1, 2018.

Shannon Blakey, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, is the 2017 recipient of the Society for the Science of Clinical Psychology's Outstanding Student Researcher Award. This award is intended to recognize outstanding graduate students who are providing exceptional contributions to the science of clinical psychology. Winners are selected based upon their research contributions to the field and selected students are featured in the Outstanding SSCP Student section of the SSCP newsletter.

3rd Annual DCP Weekend

Thank you to everyone who participated in the 3rd Annual Diversifying Clinical Psychology (DCP) Weekend, October 26—October 28! This program was developed four years ago to invite promising racial/ethnic minority undergraduates or recent graduates to UNC for an intensive set of workshops related to clinical psychology and preparation for graduate school. Our Clinical Psychology Program hosted 22 guests this year! These talented students learned more about clinical psychology doctoral programs and that UNC is a great place to consider for graduate school!
