Department News

Four doctoral students in the Department of Psychology and Neuroscience are recipients of National Science Foundation (NSF) Graduate Research Fellowship Awards. The NSF Graduate Research Fellowship recognizes outstanding graduate students in the science, technology, engineering, and mathematics fields. NSF Fellows receive three years of support from the agency and international research and professional development opportunities.

Samantha Abrams, an incoming graduate student in Social Psychology, was selected for her project, "Developing a Scaffolded Model of Scientific Understanding: Information about Genes is Filtered through Intuitive Supernatural Beliefs."

Rachael Flatt, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, was selected for her project, "Predicting Binge-Eating and Purging Behaviors Using Dynamic Systems Modeling."

Louisa Kane, a graduate student in Behavioral and Integrative Neuroscience and Clinical Psychology, was selected for her project, "Investigating Neurophysiological Substrates of Incentive Salience in Humans and Rodents."

Margarett McBride, a graduate student in Developmental Psychology, was selected for her project, "African American Fathers' Socialization about Community Violence: Examining Process and Impact."

Congratulations to Samantha, Rachael, Louisa, and Margarett!

News, continued.

Jennifer Buchholz, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, is the recipient of a 2020 Dissertation Completion Fellowship by UNC's Graduate School. The Dissertation Completion Fellowship supports promising students in the final year of dissertation work by enabling them to focus fulltime on their research and to complete their program of study without the obligation of a service assignment. It supports doctoral students for one year with an $18,000 stipend. Congratulations, Jennifer!

Kathy Do, a graduate student in Developmental Psychology, is the recipient of a 2020 Philanthropic Education Organization (PEO) Scholar Award. The PEO Scholar Awards Program was established in 1991 to provide competitive, merit-based educational awards for women who are pursuing a doctoral level degree at an accredited university. The PEO Scholar Awards are one-time, competitive awards intended to recognize and encourage academic excellence and achievement by women. These $15,000 awards provide partial support for study and research. Congratulations, Kathy!

Two instructors in the Department of Psychology and Neuroscience are recipients of 2020 UNC Center for Faculty Excellence (CFE) Summer School Teaching with Technology Mini-Grants, including Dr. Patrick Harrison, Teaching Assistant Professor, and Grant Canipe, a graduate student in Developmental Psychology. The goal of this program is for instructors to adopt interactive software or instructional technologies that they currently do not use and that will enhance student participation and engagement. The Mini-Grant provides $750 in recognition of the extra effort and time to learn and adopt the technology and/or software for their summer course and is given in support of innovative teaching. Congratulations Dr. Harrison and Grant!

Dr. Deborah Jones, Professor of Clinical Psychology, is the recipient of a 2020 UNC Office of the Provost Engaged Scholarship Award. This award was established to recognize extraordinary public service and engaged scholarship at Carolina. This award recognizes a faculty member or unit for exemplary engaged scholarship in service to the State of North Carolina. Three Provost Awards are given annually, one each for engaged teaching, engaged research, and engaged partnership. Dr. Jones was selected for the Office of the Provost Engaged Scholarship Award in Engaged Research for her exceptional and innovative work in providing free, evidence-based mental healthcare for young children with behavioral disorders. She was honored at the UNC Chapel Hill Public Service Awards Ceremony on April 24, 2020. Congratulations, Dr. Jones!

Effua Sosoo, a graduate student in Clinical Psychology, is the recipient of the 2020 UNC Graduate/Professional Student Diversity Award. The UNC Office for Diversity and Inclusion's Diversity Award recognizes significant contribution, time, and effort of Carolina community members towards advancing an inclusive climate for excellence in teaching, research, public service, and academic endeavors. The award is given annually in six categories. Effua was selected for her service, research, and clinical endeavors that reflect her steadfast commitment to improving and documenting the lived experiences of marginalized communities. Read more about why Effua is this year's UNC Graduate Student Diversity Award Winner. Congratulations Effua!
